The history of April Fool's Day or All Fools' Day is believed to begin around 1582 in France. The French people used to celebrate New Year's Day from March 25th to April 1st. But things changed in 1582. The French King began to ask his people to celebrate it on January 1st. However, some people refused to change the date. They still celebrated from March 25th to April 1st. These people were called "fools". Many people were fooled especially on April 1st. At the same time other practical jokes were played as well. Soon similar funny things happened across France. Year by year, joke-playing continued on the first day of April. This tradition was finally known by people in Britain in the 18th century and was introduced to America and other countries, too. Because of this, April Fool's Day has become popular. Many countries celebrate this day in their own way.

Elephants are smart animals. They can play soccer or music. They can also draw very well. People say that "an elephant never forgets". Elephants can walk for a long time and never get lost. They can also remember places with food and water. This helps them to live.

But elephants are in great danger. People cut down many trees so elephants are losing their homes. People also kill elephants for their ivory. Today there are only about 3,000 wild elephants in Thailand. But there were over 100,000 elephants before. We must save the trees and not buy things made of ivory.

Eye contact means looking into another person's eyes. This is a very important part of body language. It can be the key to communication. Eye contact can show friendliness, interest and understanding etc.

In Western countries, using eye contact in conversations is very important. If you do not use eye contact, Westerners may think that you are not listening. And if you look away, they may also think that you are lying.

However, in many Asian countries, looking down when talking with an older person, like a teacher or a parent, is polite. These differences can cause problems in cross-cultural communication. For example, an Asian person might look down while listening to a Western speaker. The Western speaker might think this person is not interested in what he or she is saying.

Not using eye contact can cause problems, but using too much is not polite either. In many countries, watching other people, especially strangers, for a long time is impolite. This may make them feel uncomfortable.
