Fifth, take a small first-aid box with you, particularly on longer hikes, in case you get injured. ^⑲ Sixth, pack a detailed map of the area you're hiking, along with a compass or a GPS to locate your position. ^⑳ And finally, take nothing home with you except pictures and memories. You can protect these areas by leaving all rocks, flowers, and other objects for future visitors.

He added that the risk of heart disease could be the same as someone who never exercises. ^⑲ Researchers looked at the health and training of 3,300 runners over the age of 35. Seventy per cent of them ran over 30 kilometres a week. Men who ran marathons for 25 years had 62% more chances of developing heart disease than men who did little or no exercise. Another doctor said he felt cheated.
