M: Really? But I hear he's a very good teacher.

W: Yes, he is. <sup>⑫</sup> His classes are always lively and interesting. And we all pay attention and listen to him very carefully in class.

M: <sup>⑬</sup> It's important to watch carefully when you're studying chemistry, I think.

M: Talk of climate change is on the news all the time. <sup>⑬</sup> It was cold with a lot of snow this past winter, so I'm not really sure if climate change is real.

W: It's easy to think that. <sup>⑭</sup> But the fact that there was snow here doesn't mean climate change isn't real. The earth on average is getting warmer, even if some areas are colder than normal one year. Did you know that there are a lot of animals threatened by climate change?

M: Really? Like what?

W: Well, I know you love whales, and the North Atlantic whale is at risk of extinction.

M: It is? But how is that related to climate change?

W: The whales catch some organisms. Climate change is affecting the ocean's temperature. The warmer water contains fewer organisms. <sup>⑮</sup> Fewer organisms mean less food for the whales.

M: That's awful. So climate change affects the ecosystem in the ocean where the whales live. <sup>⑯</sup> <sup>⑰</sup> I definitely don't want the whales to die from lack of food! <sup>⑱</sup> I should do something to stop this.

When he grew old, he became wealthy and famous. He also became fat and had little hair. People thought he was smart, funny and easy-going. Franklin's biggest interest was science. Once during a storm, he discovered that lightning is electrical. He also invented bifocal eyeglasses, a special kind of glasses with an upper part for seeing things at a distance and a lower part for reading. What's more, <sup>⑳</sup> Franklin set up the first fire department and the first public library in America. He also helped write the Declaration of Independence from England in 1776. As a matter of fact, Franklin was the most famous American of his time.

听下面一段独白,回答以下小题。

W: <sup>⑰</sup> The first time we meet a person it is often difficult to carry on a conversation. Let us suppose we are introduced to someone at a party. One good first question would be to ask the person how he or she knows the host or hostess. If the person answers formally by calling you Mr. or Ms. , you could then say something like <sup>⑱</sup> please call me Susan. This could immediately make the conversation more informal. In addition, if you are asked a question, try not to answer with only one or two words. <sup>⑲</sup> Look the person in the eyes and stand close enough to show you are interested in what he or she is saying. Following this plan, you'll probably soon find something you are both interested in, such as a recent movie or TV program, certain types of food or sports. <sup>⑳</sup> Stay away from subjects that could cause arguments, such as personal privacy or religious topics. If the person is new to your town, you might like to introduce him/her to some of your other friends who are present. Anyhow, in a few minutes, both of you will feel much more relaxed and can enjoy each other's company.

W:Indeed, when we are at home relaxing and our friends ask us for help, we usually agree, even if we don't want to.

M:I know. Sometimes it seems that people are not following their own heart.

W:Exactly. Many people say "yes" to these kinds of requests. People tend not to consider their own interests and feelings, <sup>⑪</sup> but they are often angry with themselves afterwards.

M:That's true. <sup>⑫</sup> Saying "no" requires courage and considerable practice, as people are afraid of losing the friendship of the person asking for help.

W:Great. Chinese dishes are prepared carefully to make sure they are very good in colour, flavor and taste.

M: Wonderful. Could you tell me the different features of Chinese food?

W: Generally speaking, <sup>⑮</sup> Cantonese food is a bit light; <sup>⑯</sup> Shanghai food is rather rich in oil; and Hunan dishes are very spicy, having a strong and hot taste.

Then they sold it to the Mill's family. <sup>⑲</sup> Five years ago, it was made into a building for the elderly. M: I want it to cool down some.

W: I know what you mean, and I can't wait until it's winter.

M: <sup>⑩</sup> Winter is great. I wish it didn't get so cold sometimes though.

W: <sup>⑪</sup> I would rather deal with the winter than the summer.

M: I feel the same way.

M: Betty, did you hear the news? An earthquake hit northern Peru this Sunday.

W: No. Was it a big one?

M: Yes. It had a magnitude of 7.5 and was felt nearly 800 kilometers away in the capital of Lima.

W: That's terrible. Did it cause a lot of damage?

M: Luckily, it didn't. <sup>⑫</sup> Although the quake was extremely strong, it was very deep. It measured 112 kilometers, so the possibility of damage was greatly reduced.

W: Then what effect did it have?

M: Part of a 16th-century church fell and <sup>⑬</sup> three people were slightly injured. And some falling stones blocked several highways in the Cajamarca region in Peru.

W: Hope it will be fine. It seems earthquakes are common in Peru.

M: Yes. <sup>⑭</sup> Most Peruvians are taught basic skills to deal with earthquakes from an early age.

W: That's necessary. Our geography teacher once introduced many cases of earthquakes in her lecture to us. It's terrifying.

M: Yeah. I hope one day modern technologies can help find a way to prevent serious damage in an earthquake.

M: <sup>⑮</sup> Hi, do you want to go and get some lunch?

W: Yes, that would be great.

M:I want to try the new café at the corner of High Street.

W:Are you sure?<sup>15</sup> It's very small and very busy, so we may have to sit outside.

M:Yes, that's why I want to go. It's autumn already and the weather might not be good for eating outside again until the spring.

W:It looks as if it might rain soon. There has been some cloud this morning.

M:No, the sky is clear and you can see the sun. That will make it warm.

W:<sup>16</sup> But there's wind that makes it a bit chilly.

M:<sup>17</sup> We can wear coats. It's been cloudy for weeks. I want to sit in the sun for a bit.

W:OK, but if it starts to rain we have to go inside.

M:Alright.

M:<sup>18</sup> Walt Disney was born in 1901 in Chicago, Illinois. As a child, he enjoyed drawing and even sold his pictures to neighbors.<sup>19</sup> When he was seventeen, he joined the Red Cross and drove an ambulance. <sup>20</sup> After that, Disney decided to find his fortune in Hollywood. He came to California with a suitcase and $ 20 in his pocket. It took a while, but Disney began to enjoy success with his cartoons. He created Mickey Mouse, the most famous cartoon character ever.<sup>21</sup> Then in 1937, Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs was on show. It was the first full-length animated movie, and a huge success. Disney made many more movies that we still watch today, including Pinocchio, Dunbo, and Bambi. It was in the 1930s and 1940s that Walt Disney first had his brainstorm about a fun park for families. His idea grew bigger and bigger, and he realized he needed a lot of space for his park. He wanted it to have everything a mountain, rockets, spinning teacups, and a fairy castle! Years after Walt Disney first had the idea, Disneyland opened in 1955 in a former orange grove in Anaheim, California.<sup>22</sup> Admission cost a dollar. By its tenth anniversary, 6.5 million visitors had come to the Magic Kingdom. Disney died in 1966, a few years before the opening of his next dream project, Disney World.
